

KSFFA Benefit Announcement:
California Casualty's Fallen Hero Benefit
A Compassionate Program for Policyholders

KSFFA, in partnership with California Casualty, wishes to communicate a reminder about a special policy feature that was added to the program designed specially for our members. It provides peace of mind for the family/partner of a fire fighter who makes the ultimate sacrifice. It is called the Fallen Hero Benefit.

Since 1995, KSFFA and California Casualty have been partners in providing members with tailored auto and home insurance policies. Both organizations recognize the ultimate sacrifice of the families who have lost a loved one and wanted to do something for the surviving family members to ease the burden of their loss.

Beginning in September 2007, the Fallen Hero Benefit has been in place for you and your colleagues who are insured through the California Casualty Auto and Home Insurance program. There is nothing you need to do and no calls to make for this benefit to be activated. Also, there is no additional cost involved.

In essence, this is how the program works: Should a "public safety officer's" life end in the line of duty, the California Casualty auto and home policy premium will be waived for the surviving partner/spouse for the remainder of the current policy year and for the following policy year.

To our knowledge, California Casualty is currently the only company to offer this type of premium waiver for fallen fire fighters. This benefit, among many others, is the reason why KSFFA chooses to make the California Casualty Auto and Home Insurance program available to members. California Casualty takes great pride in protecting policyholders who protect our communities.
